Good One on Senator McCreary.

Once upon a time Senator-elect McCreary, of Kentucky, was invited to a public demonstration in his state, and accepted on condition that he should not be asked to make a speech, says the Washington Post. While he was sitting upon the platform twirling his thumbs, the Chairman of the meeting came to him in distress. The principal speaker had failed to appear, and would, Governor McCreary take his place? Mr. McCreary protested that he was not prepared, but the Chairman was insistent, and finally secured McCreary's promise to speak. "When I go out on the platform," whispered McCreary to the leader of the band, "play as loud and fast as you can, and don't let anybody stop you until you see me take my seat again." Mr. McCreary stepped forward. The band began to play. The Chairman tried in vain to stop the music. McCreary's lips were moving and his arms were gesticulating, but the sound of his voice could not be heard. Finally he took his seat. Then, and until then, did the perspiring musicians subside. "Now will you speak again?" asked the Chairman of the meeting, when quiet was restored. "No, indeed," replied McCreary. "I have really said all that I can say upon that subject."

Isn't It True?

When a young man leaves his old home and after a few years returns on a visit from some city where he has existed principally upon bread and butter, and begins to tell his old friends the thousands of faults of old home has, he well shows himself for what nature intended him, but in the hurry to get rid of the poor material, left off the ears and bray, says the Jessamine Journal. This is very unbecoming in these young people, and shows that they have learned but little during their absence. Then there is always a certain class of traveling men who strike a town and failing to land the merchant for a good stiff order, return to their hotel to spend the rest of their time in town "roasting" the merchants and people in general. It is not a bad idea to hand them a little bunch of information as one of our old hotel men carried in stock for just such customers. In a very pleasing manner he would inform them that there were so far as he could see, no strings tied to them, and that we had five turnpikes and two railroads leading from the town, and those who were not pleased with the town and its people would not be disturbed in the attempt to leave. Moral: If you don't like the town get out of it.

Circuit Court.

Some Excellent Work Has Been Done by Attorney-Overly and Hamilton. Tough on Fliers.

The present term of Circuit Court will be of more benefit to the law-loving people than any has been held in recent years. As soon as the grand jury was selected, County Attorney James I. Hamilton pulled off his coat and has been going after wrong doers with a sharp stick. He spent most of his time in the room, and interrogated all the witnesses, which was a good idea, as this has been left mostly to the jurors heretofore. All the indictments are founded upon the very strongest evidence, and there is little doubt of their "sticking." The people should appreciate the hard work done by Mr. Hamilton, as no man ever tried harder to bring the guilty to books, and especially so in the blind tiger cases. The jury will not adjourn until next Tuesday, but up to date the following indictments have been returned.

Selling liquor unlawfully, 183; false swearing, 1; grand larceny, 6; shooting on public highway, 3; malicious shooting, 3; gaming, 20; breach of peace, 4; concealed weapons, 3; fornication, 2; detaining woman, 1; house breaking, 4; bawdy house, 1; disturbing religious worship, 6; trespass, 8. Most of the liquor cases are against "Chute" negroes, but there are many against parties who have been selling near Davistown, report of which was recently given in THE RECORD. Commonwealth's Attorney Owensley is equally as energetic in the matter, and will see that heavy fines are imposed when the cases come to trial.

Against the Drink Habit.

Officials of the Burlington Railroad have started a campaign against intoxicants with a view to eradicating their use by the employees of every department, not only on duty, but also while off duty. Heretofore the stringent rule against the use of liquor while on duty has only been enforced rigidly against those who had anything to do with the operation of trains. Hereafter the rule will be enforced against the employees of all departments, including even the track, bridge and building departments. Members of these departments upon receiving their new books of rules were surprised to read the following rule: "The use of intoxicants by employees while on duty is prohibited. Their habitual use or the frequenting of places where they are sold is sufficient cause for dismissal." It is actions like these by corporations employing thousands of men in desirable positions that is doing more to promote the cause of temperance than all the restrictive laws that are passed. Young men are learning and learning very fast that it is impossible to secure positions of honor and trust if they contract the drink habit and in consequence they are shunning the bar rooms, not only as the destroyers of their manhood, but as a bar as well to employment. The sentiment against employing drinking men is growing so strong in this country that in a few years at most all avenues of trade and commerce will be closed against the wine bibber. The sooner it is done the better it will be for the morals of the country.—Elizabethtown News.

About the Southern.

So many wisecracks, better known as "Brilliant Alexanders," have said that the proposed extension of the Southern Railway from Burgin to Jellico would never be constructed, the editor of THE RECORD decided to write to the president of the road and get an expression for publication. Every man who has had dealings with prominent men, and more particularly with railroad officials know that it is impossible to get a definite answer to questions on such subjects as the one in question, but the following letter, when the necessary "reading between the lines" is given, will show conclusively that the prospects for building the road are bright even if the lease of the C. N. O. & T. P. is confirmed. (The question of legality of the lease is now in the U. S. Supreme Court). We are free to confess that this subject is our hobby, but no man, with a thumbnail of sense will say that it is a foolish one. The building of the road would revolutionize business in Garrard, and its certainly worth working for. The letter above referred to reads:

Southern Railway Company.

Office of the President.
New York, March 13, 1902.
Louis Landrum, Editor, Lancaster, Ky. Dear Sir:—I have your favor of the 7th, with attached newspaper clipping, which have been noted with interest, and for which please accept thanks. In response I beg to say that we have not yet reached conclusions regarding the proposed extension from Burgin to Jellico. If the lease of the C. N. O. & T. P. Company is confirmed, we would, of course, have less use for such a line than we would otherwise have. Yours very truly, Sam'l Spencer, President.
